B&G Electronics: Vehicle Intercom Systems, Active Battery Monitors and more

As of July 1, 2016, TSS International BV in The Netherlands were appointed official European distributor for B&G Electronics.

The collaboration between Columbia-based B&G Electronics and TSS International ensures that B&G acquire a reliable and respected partner within Europe, and provides TSS International with a new product in their quest to expand their already high-quality selection for the armoured and civilian vehicle market.

TSS has high expectations for this expansion in its 'Armour Mobility' product portfolio. The enthusiastic customer response to the collaboration and the first results received from a test institute on behalf of EMC/CE certification are promising.

B&G has already sold 40,000 intercoms on the global market and, with TSS International, the company now has their long-sought-after partner for the European market.

Both companies are distinguished in advanced technology and user-friendly products, and consistently pursue their shared business philosophy to achieve the highest possible customer satisfaction.

By storing a small stock of selected products on TSS premises, both parties are confident that the European vehicle manufacturers and converters can be successfully serviced with this new high-quality addition to the market.
